

New fees for Survey and Title products and services

June 2021

There will be new fees for Survey and Title products and services from 1 November 2021.

We wanted to let you know so you could be prepared before the new fees come into effect.

Why are the fees increasing?

The fees are increasing to better reflect the cost of delivering Landonline services and to support a better, more resilient system. They are cost recovery only.

Summary of new fees

Title fee increases will add between $10 and $40 to the conveyancing cost of buying or selling a house. The Survey fee increases will add about $500 to the cost of lodging survey data for a small subdivision (involving two primary parcels and three easements).

The larger percentage rise in Survey fees reflect a fairer allocation of costs across the services.

Fee review process

The fee increases follow a public consultation where customers had the opportunity to give feedback on proposed new fees. Cabinet considered all feedback before making the decision to increase fees.

How customers benefit from a modernised system

- Increased Landonline system availability and reliability.
- Improved integration with third-party software for conveyancing and cadastral surveying.
- Greater public access to property information through web-based searchability.
- Streamlined conveyancing processes.
- Greater data availability creates more New Zealand business opportunities.
- Linked property information across central and local government.
- Increased level of data validation and automation.
- Ability to capture and produce survey plans in 3D.
- A more efficient and user-friendly application for customers.
- Increased transparency of service – customers can see the progress of their requests and transactions more clearly.
- Better visibility of all land in New Zealand to support better investment decisions.
