View into the Stony Block gully, with its extensive intact tall tussock grasslands at relatively low altitude. This area has high visual and ecological values, as well as containing the paired water races of high heritage value. A protective covenant is required for this area to enable the protection of these values in perpetuity.

Photos 3 and 4.

The middle country of Stony and Bogside blocks (on right) is tall tussock grassland with significant inherent values in ecology, landscape and cultural heritage. The severely modified landscape on the left (also taken on Pisgah Downs at its boundary with Dome Hills) is the potential fate of the Pisgah Downs tall tussock landscapes, if left unprotected by covenant or conservation status (photos taken by A Steven on 25 October 2005).

Photo 5

The natural looking tussock grassland interfluvial surface is important in sustaining the natural character of the CA2 area. They need protection against cultivation, tree planting and AOSTD.

There are significant broadleaf forest, dry shrubland and snow tussock grassland remnants in the gully upstream of the proposed CA2 area, which need to be included. These photos are taken from just upstream of the proposed boundary fence.
